

HHS BY THE NUMBERS

Advancing Biomedical Research and Innovation

THE FIRST

drug specifically designed to treat postpartum depression, was approved by FDA

FOUR INVESTIGATIONAL AGENTS

to treat Ebola were used in a clinical trial, carried out in an active war zone; two agents appeared to provide a greater chance of survival and are being used to treat patients

CDC developed and characterized

50+ candidate vaccine viruses

for vaccine manufacturers and characterized more than 10,000 influenza viruses

with next generation genetic testing

300,000

people across all 50 states have enrolled in NIH's unprecedented long-term All of Us Research Program

53RD FDA APPROVAL

of BARDA-supported medical countermeasures, including 12 in the past year

President Trump announced over

$500M

over ten years for the NIH Childhood Cancer Data Initiative

10 Biosimilar Products

approved by FDA in 2019—more than each of the previous 2 years of patients with cystic fibrosis and over the age of 12 may benefit from a new combination drug developed with NIH-supported research

90%