

The Office of Regional Operations

The Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) is one of 11 agencies under the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). HRSA is the primary federal agency responsible for improving health and achieving health equity through access to quality services, a skilled health workforce and innovative programs. HRSA's programs provide health care to people who are geographically isolated, economically or medically vulnerable.

The Office of Regional Operations (ORO) at HRSA consists of 10 regional offices that provide on-the-ground outreach to increase the reach, impact, and awareness of HRSA programs. In addition to 10 regional offices, ORO has its headquarters in Rockville, MD and one sub-regional office in Puerto Rico. The HRSA regional offices are co-located with the HHS regional offices and other HHS operating divisions.

CORE FUNCTIONS

ORO extends the reach of HRSA programs by leveraging knowledge of the regional landscape, proximity and networks of local contacts in states and territories.

External Affairs & Outreach: ORO serves as the HRSA Ambassador and regional leader conducting outreach to expand knowledge about HRSA's programs and priorities and increase access to care.

Strategic Stakeholder Partnerships: ORO engages partners at various levels (federal, state, and local) and brokers relationships to advance HHS/HRSA priorities and provide targeted strategic action.

Regional Surveillance: ORO identifies and reports critical ground-level communications and information about regional/state trends to inform HRSA's operations, decision-making, and allocation of resources.

Regional Management: ORO provides administrative management to ensure the efficacy of HRSA's regional human capital, technology, and facilities resources.
